

soUNDtext call for submissions:

On a rolling basis, HELPINGER Projects will release soUNDtexts on the soUNDtext Portal and the soUNDtext blog.

We invite you to submit your soUNDtexts to contact@soundundtext.com.

But first, what is a soUNDtext!?

A soUNDtext is the union of soUND and text created by the soUNDtext word processor. Simply, it is what you hear when you run typed text through soUNDtext.

Here are three examples of soUNDtexts accompanying video: Pi by Nicholas Komodore, For Nico by Ashley Brim, and google goggle by Tom Comitta.

soUNDtext is available for free download here (67 MB direct download).

A few specifics:

1. Submissions can take the form of a link (to YouTube, Vimeo, etc.), email attachment, or file transfer.
2. Please direct all submissions, questions, and queries to contact@soundundtext.com
3. soUNDtexts will be posted on the soUNDtext Portal or the soUNDtext blog. Contributors will be given full credit for their soUNDtext and will obtain any license (copyright or Creative Commons) desired.
4. Deadline: None. We will accept submissions at any time.
